'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Life's little tragedies include the razing by the general public during the consuming of a gift cigar, presented by an, er-a, er, well, "admirer" will fill the bill just as well as anything else.

The cigar was the best one that a nickel could purchase. It was a combination of El Smello El Ropo and El Cababagio, all rolled into one.

Persons entering the office took one smell of the rag, and either passed out or stuck their heads out the door for air. Two ladies came in with a story and after they had smelled the cigar, went out in the car, and our demon reporter had to follow them to get the story.

A stray dog wandered into the office, took one whiff went out shaking his head and whimpering.

About this time the impression struck us that perhaps the cigar didn't smell so good as it should. Anyhow, we had a cold and couldn't smell it.

But the crowning insult of the evening was yet to come. Enter a certain person wearing a brown suit and a light hat, who took one smell, went out the door, slammed it, only to appear five seconds later with a package of cigarettes in his hand. These cigarettes he threw upon the desk. He then, carefully holding his nose, grasped the cigar out of our face with two fingers and threw it out the door.

And with that we realized that the cigar was pretty bad at that.

Armistice day will soon be here and all Richmond will celebrate. There will be a parade and program here on the morning of the Eleventh.

And then in the afternoon there is the football game between the Army and Navy at the Berkeley stadium.

According to our friend Captain Meredith, of the Presidio, the military spectacle which will precede the game at 1:30 will be worth seeing.

A picked battalion of sailors; three selected companies of R. O. T. C. from Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley; a detachment of engineers; a battalion from the Sixth Coast Artillery; the 30th Infantry; San Rafael Military Academy cadets and National Guardsmen will take part in the parade.

And then there is the game itself, which should be hotly contested, to say the least.

Utility District May Be Used

Ruling of three superior court judges that the East Bay Municipal Utility District could not be sued for the deaths of four men in Claremont tunnel, Thanksgiving Day in 1928 was overruled by California supreme court yesterday in decisions handed down on appeals from the three jurists' versions.

Superior Judges H. V. Alvarado of Contra Costa county with T. W. Harris and Fred V. Wood in Alameda county held that the utility district was a public body and could not be sued. They ruled that only Smith Brothers, contractors on the project could be sued for the deaths, which resulted when flood waters of San Pablo creek broke through a retaining wall at the Orinda entrance and ended in the disaster.

Heads of the dead men are expected to file suits naming the East Bay Utility District and Smith Brothers, as defendants.

Bank Record Made By High Students

Richmond high school students are saving not less than $100 a week in the school banking system.

That was revealed this week when it was learned that one week the school's deposit amounted to $140. Many rooms are receiving 100 per cent posters for their savings, and many other rooms are believed to be ready to receive the same awards.

REDUCTION IN SCHOOL TAXES ASKED

EQUALIZATION OF TAXES ASKED

School district taxes paid by Richmond property holders would be materially reduced if action now being considered for introduction at the state legislature's session next year is passed, it was learned last night following the return of W. T. Helms, superintendent of schools from a meeting in Los Angeles.

At the Los Angeles session conducted by the legislative committee of California State Teachers' association, of which Helms is a representative from this district, equalization of state school funds, which would reduce the steadily increasing district school tax, was one of the principle measures for consideration.

School districts throughout the state at the present time pay on an average, 84 percent of school maintenance cost. A few years ago the districts paid only 45 percent, the balance of school maintenance cost being borne by the state.

With the equalization of state school funds made into law the present high tax paid by property holders would be reduced. Reason given by Helms for the steady increase in that direction is due to the increasing number of subjects the schools must teach without being given additional aid by the state in furnishing means for the giving of this instruction.

All smaller districts throughout the state would be benefited accordingly, by the passage of such a measure. Even the larger areas in San Francisco and Los Angeles favor the plan, Helms reported.

Dr. Fletcher Harper Swift, University of California school tax expert is heading a committee of five men which is working on an equalization tax plan that is expected to be introduced in the legislature.

THREE SHIPS RUSH TO AID OF TANKER

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—UP—Fast ground off Pigeon Point, 50 miles south of here, the Richfield oil tanker Tamahua started to buckle in the middle at 10:30 p. m. tonight.

Three ships were nearing the tanker at that time to assist its crew of 45 men under Captain Anderson.

Reports to Coast Guard Headquarters and the Muscle Rock radio station of the Dollar Steamship company here indicated the plight of the vessel was gradually becoming worse.

The buckle was caused when two ends of the ship dropped lower in the water than the middle. It was particularly noticeable in the boiler rooms, and it was believed the ship would soon be without steam. This would put the radio set out of condition.

Groping through the thick fog that caused the accident, the liner Stanley Dollar, the tug Sea Ranger and the steamer Lake Marjorie were almost at Pigeon Point as the Tamahua started to buckle.

The Coast Guard cutter Cahokia expected to reach the tanker shortly before dawn.

GRUDGE TOLD AT BOXING PROBE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—UP—While state Boxing Commissioner Charles F. Traung was offering two affidavits to the governor's committee investigating boxing conditions of California here today as evidence that there was "tampering and crookedness" in the sport here, the signer of one of them told the county grand jury they were false.

Louis Lippi, former trainer for Max Baer, Livermore heavyweight, claimed before the jury that he had signed one of the affidavits at the request of Traung without knowing they contained the accusations that August R. Oliva, local politician, "fixed" one of Baer's fights.

"It was all a 'frame' so that Traung could even a grudge against Oliva," Lippi told the jury. "The affidavits were dictated by Traung himself and we (Baer and Lippi) signed them without even reading them. We did it to keep Traung from bothering Baer anymore."

The affidavits charged that Oliva had offered Baer an expensive automobile to let Tiny Abbot of Eureka stay five rounds against him.

A special meeting of the grand jury will be held next Monday night to consider Lippi's testimony before it John P. Murphy, foreman said. He indicated Traung and Baer would be called before the jury.

Traung was the first witness before the state committee headed by Allen Bixby, director of the state department of veterans and military affairs, and appointed by Gov. C. C. Young as it opened its session here.

In answer to a question, he produced the affidavits previously given the grand jury.

He claimed there were no "teeth" in the present boxing law and commented:

"Men of strong and fearless character are needed to run the boxing game in California."

CHEST DRIVE TOTAL SET AT $4500, REPORT

The Richmond Community Chest campaign is now fully under way with $4500 actually subscribed.

This was the report yesterday at the meeting of the down town business divisions workers who assembled at luncheon at the Hotel Carquinez for a summing up of the first day's effort. W. W. Scott, general chairman, said indications point to increasing activity with large returns within the next few days.

Yesterday's meeting was that of the two down town business divisions, lead by George E. Barnett and George Thornton. Most of their team workers have canvassed only a small portion of their respective districts, and but three team workers from each division reported at the meeting. Returns from them and from the amount previously reported from the central committee, or advance gifts section, brought the total for the campaign up to date to $4500, it was reported.

The residential phase of the campaign is to be whipped into final shape at a meeting under the direction of Mrs. Earle Scottfield at 10:30 o'clock this morning. All campaign literature, including cards for the prospective givers, will be distributed at this meeting. Mrs. Scottfield's division will be expected to call on approximately 4,000 persons beginning next Monday morning. The work of this group is to be reported on at a luncheon next Wednesday and at a final dinner Friday evening of next week, at which time it is expected the campaign will be closed.

The central committee under Arthur C. Paris will gather at a report luncheon next Monday, at which time it is expected final reports will be made. This group has already brought in a considerable sum in donations from the larger givers, and only a portion of the prospects have been seen, it was said by Paris.

Chest leaders appealed for a continuance of the spirit of co-operation which bids fair to make Richmond's first chest year a success.

"Even though times are hard we must all dig a little deeper," said Scott. "There will be much call for aid from those in need this winter. Our chest should be in position to meet these worthy calls, and this can only be done if our citizens give it their support."

Hawks Sets New Record

GENERAL MACHADO AIRPORT Cuba, Nov. 6.—UP—Captain Frank Hawks arrived here at 6:14 this afternoon, in the monoplane Texaco 13, completing his two stop flight between New York and Havana in 9 hours and 36 minutes.

Captain Hawk's actual flying time was eight hours, 17 minutes. He explained that head winds delayed him considerably. He had estimated that he would make the trip in seven hours flying time.

His average speed per hour was 182 miles.

Captain Hawks stated that he did not know when he would return to the states but thought that it would not be before Saturday.

The trip of Captain Hawks breaks the record held by Wilmer Stultz when he flew from New York to Havana in the monoplane "Columbia" in 14 hours in March, 1928. At that time he was accompanied by Mabel Boll and Levine.

High Band At Course Opening

Richmond union high school band furnished music at the opening of the Community Clubroom Golf course in Fairfield last week. The band was in charge of George Morris, director of the group.

DEMOCRATS CONTROL HOUSE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—UP—Republicans appeared to have held control of the senate and the Democrats a bare majority of the house on the basis of late election returns tonight.

Latest returns showed the following probable line-up:

SENATE—Republicans, 48; Democrats, 46; Farmer-Labor 1; doubtful (Kentucky) 1. Necessary for majority, 49.

HOUSE—Republicans, 214; Democrats, 218; Farmer-Labor 1; doubtful (Kentucky and Illinois) 2. Necessary for majority 218.

Some of these results were so close, however, that recounts and contests may be numerous, probably causing a number of shifts in the line-up during the months to come before the new congress begins its work.

But no changes now in prospect are likely to alter the fact that regardless of technical control, a combination of Democrats and Republican insurgents in both houses will dominate congress during the last two years of President Hoover's term.

It is a situation no president has ever found to his liking and enactment of any studied administration program has in the past been almost impossible under such conditions. President Hoover may be expected to press for completion of his legislative program at the coming short session of the old congress next month while he still has a firm grip on the house and before the insurgent strength in the present senate is still further increased. TAXPAYERS AT MEETING HERE NAME OFFICERS

By popular acclamation members of the Contra Costa County Division of California Taxpayers' association at their annual meeting, held last night at Hotel Carquinez, Richmond, again installed E. I. de Laveaga of Orinda, as their chairman to lead them for the new term of 1930-1931.

Supervisor James N. Long, a member of the organization, introduced the resolution calling upon all members present to unanimously re-elect de Laveaga to head the taxpayers' body. Long declared that de Laveaga had the confidence and respect of all county officials, and predicted that if the affairs of the Taxpayers' association continued to be guided by de Laveaga, the forthcoming period would see further and greater accomplishments, jointly achieved by county and taxpayers' officials.

Following the installation of de Laveaga, members showed their further approval by re-electing in its entirety the remaining outgoing board of directors, consisting of E. M. Downer, Richmond, E. G. Nash, Brentwood, E. B. Bull, Richmond, F. W. Vieth, Crockett, F. S. Newsome, Richmond, Armand Stow, Pittsburg.

The newly elected directors followed by electing E. M. Downer, vice chairman and F. W. Vieth, chairman of the budget committee, F. S. Newsome, chairman publicity, W. W. Scott, chairman roads and bridges, R. H. Bergen, chairman charities and corrections, George K. Anderson, chairman protection to persons and property, A. V. McFaul, chairman on general government committee, J. D. Keith, chairman educational committee, and J. B. McFarland, secretary.

The feature of the evening was the address by Roland A. Vandegrift, noted tax authority, and secretary of the state division of California Taxpayers' association.

Vandegrift's subject was "Operation of a Taxpayers' association in the Program of Expenditure Control."

Vandegrift stressed the point that a taxpayers' association should adopt a program of co-operation with public officials. He also declared that it should be a source of information to public officials, in that the tax body is organized for research and study on tax and governmental matters.

Vandegrift urged people of the county to think of the Taxpayers' association as their direct representative on all matters pertaining to taxes and governmental operations. He called upon his hearers to undertake to create a tax consciousness among others.

"After all, declared Vandegrift, this undertaking is not the work solely of a few, but in reality is the duty of every taxpayer to undertake his part to minimize the burden of taxation in governmental operations."

'Golden Cross' Escapes Rocks

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—UP—After several hours during which the fate of the vessel was uncertain, the Oceanic & Oriental freighter "Golden Cross" succeeded in pulling itself from the rocks off Point Reyes, where it had grounded in a heavy fog early today, and arrived at San Francisco under its own power late this afternoon.

By the time the Coast Guard cutter Shawnee and the Red Stack tug Sea Ranger had arrived at the scene, the Golden Cross was safe, although it had been feared earlier that the ship might pound to pieces endangering the lives of Captain G. M. Curtis and 35 members of the crew.

The Golden Cross was enroute to Portland when the accident occurred.

The ship will be dry docked and immediate repairs will be started, according to Matson line officials. The Matson line is affiliated with the O. & O. line.

ARMY WILL BE GIVEN PLANS

Plans for the proposed Richmond-San Rafael bridge will soon be submitted to the war department for its approval.

This was learned yesterday, following a report received here that the plans for the gigantic span have been approved of by a consulting board of local, New York and Washington engineers.

As soon as the approval is made, the project will be submitted for financing.

The bridge, which is to be built by private interests, will be one of the largest of its kind. A feature of the plans is the proposed 1500 foot span over the west channel of the bridge, where foundations must be laid down to bedrock, 300 feet below the surface of the water, according to Prof. Charles Derleth, of the engineering college of the University of California. Derleth is advisory engineer for the bridge company.

He declared the 300 foot depth is almost 50 feet deeper than bedrock at the eastern end of the proposed San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge.

The Odd Fellows battled to a 26 to 24 victory over the Studebaker quintet last evening in a heated A division clash.

The Garfinkle Clothers triumphed over the Mastercraft Roofers by a score of 30 to 14 in B division competition.

The A contest was a neck-and-neck affair throughout four quarters. The Studebakers started out in sensational fashion and were leading 8 to 4 by the end of the first quarter. The odds remained about even during the second quarter, with the result that the Studebakers were still on the lead end of a 13 to 11 score at half time.

In the second half the lodgemen came back fast and hard to go into a 24 to 15 lead by the end of the third quarter. The Studebakers made a valiant comeback in the final period and allowed the lodgemen but one basket, while they netted nine points.

The fierce Studebaker offensive during the last minute of play, thereby winning their first game of the Richmond City Basketball league.

Notwithstanding a rather one-sided score, the B division game was a truly spirited contest. The Roofers held the Garfinkle athletes to a narrow margin until the fourth quarter, when the Garfinkle's began to shoot the ball accurately with fatal results. The Garfinkle cagers were in a 14 to 8 lead at half time, and were leading 19 to 12 at the conclusion of the third period.

Recount Asked In Kansas Election

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 6.—UP—Dr. John R. Brinkley, goat gland rejuvenator of Milford, who ran in the Kansas gubernatorial race as an independent and piled up a big vote, has left for Florida in his airplane.

Brinkley supporters assert their candidate, who sought vindication after the Kansas medical board refused him the right to practice his gland transplantation, was "counted out," that 40,000 votes other than those allowed him were thrown out for one reason or another.

So tonight, recalling the doctor said before he left that he "left it to the people of Kansas," they met in Wichita to demand a recount.

C. D. Bank, secretary of the Sedgewick county Brinkley for Governor club, called the meeting, asserting: "We'll follow it to the United States supreme court if necessary, but we'll get a recount for Doctor Brinkley."

HIGH ELEVEN WILL MEET ALAMEDA

The football season of 1930 will end today for the Richmond Union High school varsity gridirons when they go into battle with the Alameda High school eleven this afternoon at the Neptune stadium in Alameda.

The cellar of the Alameda County Athletic league will be the doom of the Richmond warriors in case of defeat this afternoon at the hands of Alameda. However, the local boys, enraged by their two crushing defeats by Berkeley and Piedmont, are determined that their last game of the season shall not end in such a fashion.

In spite of rather unfortunate results this season, the Red and Blue should be able to stand up favorably before the Alameda machine this afternoon. The Richmond defense lacked union and co-operation in last week's game with Piedmont. Strenuous efforts are consequently being made by Coach Ribbel to patch up the flaws in the defense, and at the same time, he is attempting to eliminate the unfortunate number of fumbles and misplays in the backfield.

A strong Richmond lineup will start in today's contest. Merle Basket will be at fullback, which position he has maintained this season by reason of his spirited plunging and punting. Snodgrass and Masek, two strong halfbacks, and Boschetti brainy little quarterback, will constitute the remainder of the Richmond backfield.

A heavy Richmond line will face the Alameda eleven today. Jullerat and Drexel will start at ends, while Lilly and Westman will occupy the tackle positions. Avila and Hoefler will start as guards, and Hall will occupy the pivotal position.

Alameda's main threat is Captain Nova, fullback, who is now playing his last year for Alameda and who has earned an enviable high school football reputation.

During the half intermission in today's contest at Neptune, a one and one half mile cross country run will be held between the Richmond and Alameda High school tracksters. The race will start on the stadium track, will continue through Alameda, and will end back on the track.

GLORIA GIVEN DIVORCE DECREE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—UP—The marriage of Gloria Swanson and her French nobleman husband, Marquis Henry La Bailly De La Falsaise De La Coudraye, ended in the divorce courts here today when the actress was granted an uncontested interlocutory decree.

Miss Swanson showed no emotion on the witness stand as she testified in support of her single, brief charge that the marquis deserted her and refused to return despite urgent pleadings.

She presented a letter to the court to prove her contention. Miss Swanson said that she and the marquis were married in January, 1925, and lived together, apparently happy, until about a year ago. At that time he went to Paris where he was reported often in the company of Constante Bennett, another screen star.

When the marquis returned to Hollywood several months ago, he refused to live in Miss Swanson's home here, establishing residence in a hotel, she testified.

There were no children of the marriage. Miss Swanson has two children, one by a former marriage and one adopted. The marquis was her third husband.

The most exciting incident of the proceedings was her hasty departure from the courtroom. The case had been called a day ahead of schedule and newspaper photographers were caught unaware. Miss Swanson ran from the courtroom, down the stairs and got into her car before the arrival of the pursuing photographers, who were hampered by cameras.

BUSTER KEATON IN FILM AT THE FOX

Buster Keaton, whose initial talking comedy was the mirthful burlesque of Hollywood activities, "Free and Easy" again turns to farce in his second dialogue production, "Dough Boys" which is said to present a picture of the World War from a decidedly humorous viewpoint.

Appearing as the son of a millionaire who quite unexpectedly finds himself in the firing lines, Keaton runs the gamut of a long series of what are reported to be side-splitting situations in which he ends up as the hero of the regiment without knowing what it is all about.

Sharing honors with the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer comedian in his newest laugh-getter is the director Edward Sedgwick, whose efforts in connection with the production revealed an amazing versatility inasmuch as he not only supervised the filming of the picture, but assisted Al Boasberg and Sidney Lazarus in preparation of the play.

Information is that the plot of "Dough Boys" gives Keaton an opportunity to veer slightly more on straight dramatic acting than is usually seen in the comedian's work. Individuals, however, who have seen advance "shots" of the production are emphatic in their assurance that it is not lacking in the usual quota of laughs. A sequence in which it is said Keaton outdoes himself is that of a "dog-out show" in which the soldiers impetuously women and the star executes a riotous "Apache" dance with acrobatic variations.

Added laughs are guaranteed by the appearance of Cliff Edwards and his inevitable ukulele who sings the production's song "Sing," written by Howard Johnson and Joseph Meyer.

The romantic interest is furnished by Sally Eilers, last seen as the ingenue of "Let Us Be Gay." The cast also includes Edward Brophy, Victor Potel, Aronold Keefe, Frank Mayo, Pitz Katz and William Steele. The new comedy will be shown at the Fox-California Theater tomorrow.

LANGUAGE OF INDIANS IN FILM HERE

How come the Indians use "How" as a word of greeting?

There are those who hold that they are merely trying to imitate the Yankee "Howdy."

However, a different version was part of the explanatory substance which became Richard Arlen's store of knowledge after he had worked with a band of redskins in "The Santa Fe Trail." Paramount's sound and talking filmization of Hal G. Evarts' novel "Spanish Acres" closing today at the Fox-California Theater.

In the language of nearly every Indian tribe, "hau" learned means "good," and many of the modern survivors of a bronzed race of aborigines believed that the greeting sprang from this word.

According to the Indians who worked in this picture, any of their people will respond pleasantly to the greeting "hau kola" the "kola" being grammatically kosher for "friend."

Thirty-five hundred sheep were assembled at the Paramount ranch near Calabasas for atmospheric roles in "The Santa Fe Trail," talking picture version of Hal G. Evarts' novel, "Spanish Acres."

The flock, the largest ever assembled for a photoplay, completely depleted all the large herds of sheep in southern California. Most of them came from the neighborhood of Calabasas, Sawtelle and Beverly Hills. The largest single flock comprises more than 2000 sheep, and it required two days to get them into their new location.

GATE BRIDGE VOTE FETED BY CITIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—UP—Public celebrations in five northern California counties that voted Tuesday to provide bonds toward $35,000,000 for immediate construction of a bridge across the Golden Gate started tonight.

Residents of Marin and Sonoma counties joined around a huge bonfire across from the city hall in Petaluma and held a rally. There were four bands and a parade of floats depicting benefits to the region that will result from construction of the bridge. Frank P. Doyle, Petaluma banker, credited with being the first to conceive such a project and endorse it, was listed as a principal speaker.

Plans for a big demonstration here were started.

With only 14 precincts missing from six counties that voted on the proposal, the total in favor was 143,503 and against was 46,339. This provided 17,041 votes more than the necessary two thirds to insure adoption.

Counties voted as follows: San Francisco complete—yes, 11,328; no, 1680; Sonoma complete, yes, 17,400; no, 4217; Napa two precincts missing yes 4329, no 2929; Mendocino four precincts missing, yes 1687, no 2343; Del Norte, one precinct missing, yes 1711, no 222.

Drys Pleased By Election Returns

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—UP—Prohibition leaders today interpreted the election returns as showing that their cause weathered the Democratic landslide and the unprecedented wet campaign in a remarkable way, and as showing the need of more efficient organization in some districts.

The anti-saloon league said 23 senators chosen were dry and only six were wet. His statement added that the prohibition issue was sharply contested in only seven states, Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, Montana and Delaware, and the wets won only in Ohio and Massachusetts. Other issues strongly prevailed in Ohio and Massachusetts, he said.

Senator Charles McNary, D-Ore., Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, prohibition and public morals said the defeat of Charles H. Tuttle in New York and Mrs. Ruth McCormick in Illinois shows clearly it is suicide for the Republican party to give aid and comfort to the wet cause in nearly any northern state.

Must Parents Be Provocative Agents?

A PART of the job of being a parent—a really modern, up-to-date parent—is to listen as patiently as may be to all the advice and instruction offered by all the persons belonging to the well-known Legion family, who are perfectly sure that they know how to bring up children.

So much better than the children's own fathers and mothers.

The latter, of course, always have had plenty of volunteer advice.

From old maid aunts, from grandparents, from other affectionate intimates—

But nowadays parents are simply snowed under.

By the avalanche of articles and speeches and books from psychologists, sociologists, preachers, teachers and Dr. John B. Watson.

On how to feed, educate and discipline the baby—

And the conscientious parents, poor dears, feel that they're missing something.

If they don't read—even though they may not always heard—what the self-appointed experts expound.

The trouble is that the experts—like the doctors in the proverb—so often disagree.

And what is a mere parent to do then, poor thing?

The sensible mother of our acquaintance is more than a little weary.

Of the "let the little darling do as he pleases" theory of child training; she cannot understand why, in a world where a grown-up must submit to law and discipline, a child should be exempt from either.

She therefore welcomes what seems to be the newest idea in bringing up the youngsters—

The new-old idea that they really must be guided and trained—

Even, at times, against their own sweet will.

Yet it seems to us a long step from a sane system of child control.

To some of the advice contained in the new edition of V. M. Hillyer's "Child Training."

Not that this Baltimore school teacher doesn't offer many wise words to fathers and mothers of young children—

"But, must I," a mother may ask after reading his chapter on Habit Drills—

"Must I become an agent provocateur, a provocative agent, a provocateur?"

"Who teaches my child good habits by tempting him to adopt bad ones?"

"Won't children do enough things which they ought not to do?"

"Without being egged on by their mothers and fathers and teachers?"

For example, Mr. Hillyer gives the following counsel:

"If you want to train a child to pick up scraps of paper from the floor—

"Whenever he sees them—

"Put paper on the floor and have him pick it up.

"Put it down again and repeat the exercise."

"Exactly as if you were training a dog to fetch the newspaper."

"Till the habit is so formed that the sight of waste paper on the floor—

"Starts the reflex action—pick up."

Well, assuming that a busy mother has time to tear up paper and throw it on the floor—

Expressly for baby to pick up—

Why isn't she teaching that imitative infant to tear paper—

To pick it up afterward, perhaps—but first, to destroy it, to tear it up?

And anyhow, isn't life too short.

To make extra demands on the neatness of even a little child?

Why can't he be taught neatness by being asked to pick up something naturally on the floor—such as his toys?

However, Mr. Hillyer indorses more deliberate parental provocations.

Tell children, he says, that you're going to practice them in obeying the order, "Don't look."

Tell them that when you have given the order—

"They are not to look around under any circumstances."

"No matter even if a contradictory order is given."

"Until you call 'Time.'"

"Then give the order and behind their backs."

"Try different devices to entice them into looking."

"Tell a story and pretend to illustrate it."

"Stamp about or make audible gestures."

"Make chalk marks on the blackboard as if drawing."

"Turn over a chair, drop a book or something heavy."

"Suddenly speak into the ear of one saying, 'Look here!'"

"Tap another on the shoulder excitedly."

Further examples of this educator's method of teaching children to follow prohibitions.

Is to say, "Don't talk," and then try to surprise them into talking—

"though you do warn them first."

"Give the command, 'Don't talk,' but continue to talk yourself."

"Telling either a story or something about which children would ordinarily ask questions."

"And if this doesn't succeed, abruptly ask one of the children a question, trying to take him off his guard."

"Or to startle him into a reply."

But what seems to us the worst demonstration of being a parental agent provocateur.

Is Mr. Hillyer's method of teaching children to keep a secret.

"Practice the children in keeping a secret," he advises.

"First, explaining how careful they must be not to 'give themselves away.'"

"That to keep a secret they must never tell that they have one."

"If, however, it is known that they are in possession of a secret, their only safe reply to every question is—

"I have nothing to say."

"Ask one child to tell another a secret."

"Then put the latter on the grill."

"Cross-questioning, cajoling, flustering him, in the ways usually employed to extract a secret, thus:

"Will you give me three guesses?"

"I don't believe you have a secret."

"I dare you to tell."

"If you tell me I'll tell you something."

Now, it seems to us that any parent trying such tactics on any child—

Telling him not to look around—

Telling him to make him look, telling him not to talk—then trying to make him talk.

Telling him a secret—then trying to tempt him to break confidence—

Any parent would simply be greeted by the childish ejaculation, "No fair!"

It is important for a youngster to learn good habits.

But it is also important for him to believe in the parental sense of justice.

And how can he—if such transparent injustice is shown in dealing with him?

If agents provocateurs make labor troubles worse and are unjustified.

Such provocative agents will have an even worse effect on domestic discipline—

One who has a woman who has helped to bring up three youngsters feels about it.

Luck in New Ornaments

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930.

HOW are you off for luck? Just about every other person in Paris is carrying about some sort of a talisman. There are so many and such diverse objects counted among these lucky pieces that the choice is a wide one.

Jewelry and some emblematic design embroidered on clothes are the popular forms the craze is taking with women, while men run to this or that they can slip into a pocket, secure in the belief that fate cannot harm them now.

Since time immemorial precious stones have been thought to have a language of their own, so it is only natural that jewelry should be held up for consideration. Elephants, perhaps, are a first choice. Men, as well as women, have these beasts reproduced in emerald, which in itself is supposed to be a guard against evil, or in turquoise, which is more frequently used when times are hard.

Elephants are to be presented from one friend to another as a gift, for the turquoise stands for loyalty and faithfulness. A tiny turquoise elephant on a slender chain, or one of some sort of composition entirely encrusted with wee turquoise is used as a pledge between lovers or friends.

As a matter of fact, the turquoise was used as an engagement stone long before the diamond became so popular for the purpose.

Since there is, just at the moment, such a flair for black, jet comes in for a revival of popularity, and jet is properly talismanic. But it must be worn against the flesh, and if by any chance the jet ornament should be chipped or broken ever so slightly, it must be discarded and never seen by its owner again. But the new jet pieces are lovely, and moreover, they are peculiarly becoming.

Little ruby-eyed rabbits are "lucky pieces." So, too, are tiny jade beads. At any rate, they look like a charm with garnets for eyes—garnets and rubies each signifying victory over pettiness, and because of this symbolism many women wear little earrings set with these two stones in juxtaposition, for who wouldn't grasp at any straw that promised immunity from the littlest of ills.

There are a number of amethyst elephants—amethyst signifies peace and harmony—among the charms, and some lovely topaz pieces, beautifully cut and many-faceted, worn as pendants or in the form of the "three harmonies" as brooches, for topaz is the emblem of lasting friendship.

Do not forget the opal. No longer a symbol of ill luck, the opal is much in demand, for it is now understood to invest its wearer with fresh hope and courage, and is particularly looked to as a talisman in time of any special trouble or disaster.

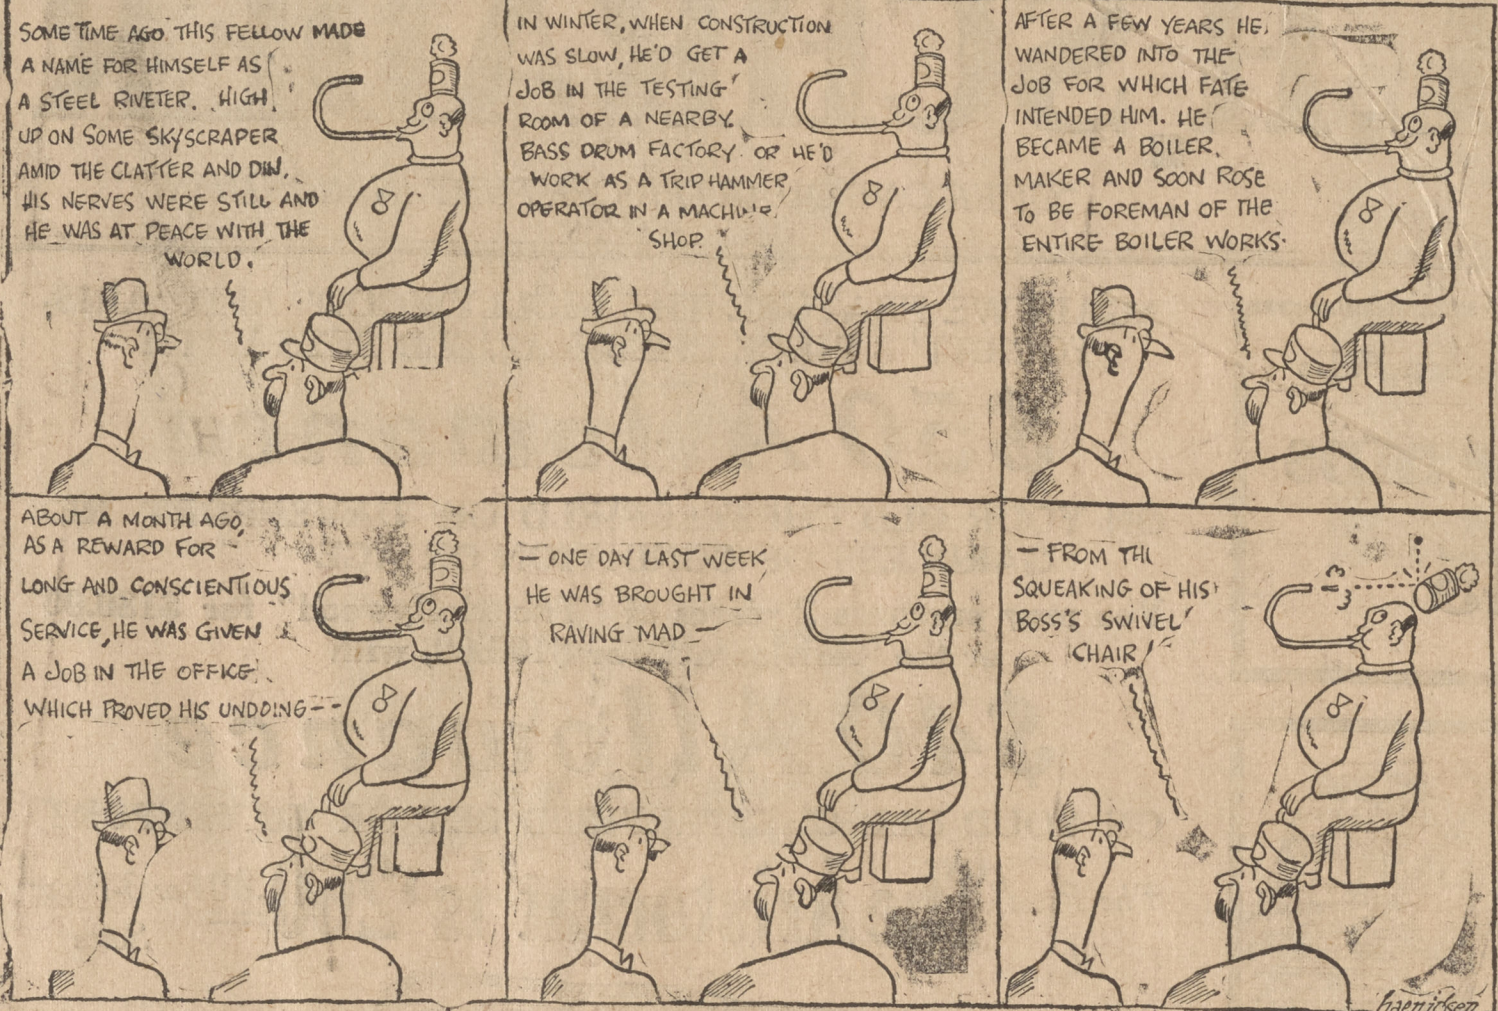

If you should decide that, after all, you conscientiously desire to be happy, you will resort to diamonds. Their psychic influence upon health and temperament is marked, so it is said by those who make a study of psychic influences, and character building is an interesting duty.

And then there are emblems done in embroidery. Everything that can be done that way has succumbed and any number of needlewomen are making a rich living just now decorating lingerie, hosiery, etc., with luck symbols.

The Housewife Should Know

You can clean your rubber apron by merely rubbing it with a damp cloth and if badly soiled dip the cloth in baking soda. Warm water containing a little household ammonia will clean rubber articles nicely and will also lengthen their service because it keeps them soft and pliable.

Has the Rocker a Place?

By Alma Zaiss

SOMETIMES, in the midst of very modern plans for decoration, one has a spare minute or two in which to wonder what has become of all the rockers that rocked little ones to sleep not so very long ago. Those chairs that tilted and swayed just so, to permit grandmas and the favorite aunts and uncles to hold small, middle-aged and even larger children on laps that never seemed to tire of their burden.

But rarely is the question asked aloud, for the pedantic portion of the one-furnishing world would answer with alacrity that the rocker had been relegated to the attic for many a modern year. That everyone knows. But still it doesn't prevent occasional reminiscing and wishing that it might come back for a day or so . . . just for comfort and sentiment!

It is interesting to see how different homes have reacted to fashion's taboo of the rocker. Certain hardy souls have been known to defy conventions, keeping a beloved rocker in its old place where they have enjoyed it for years; and there they defend it against all criticism. (From a decorative standpoint we usually question their wisdom.) In other families bitter quarrels are waged between the young and the old over the retention of the elders' wish to retain this relic of unbroken antiquity. And invariably the youngsters win.

Again we find persons of fine feeling, who value sentiment more than style, yet find it discreet to serve both interests. And so, instead of introducing an out of date rocker into modern circles, where it could be at its ease, these true friends of the comfy old piece provide for it a setting so quaint and so homey that one's first thought is of its eternal fitness instead of ridicule.

In the room illustrated how perfectly the old rocker fits into the general scheme which is as old-fashioned as the sunbonnet . . . and yet artistic because it is true and natural.

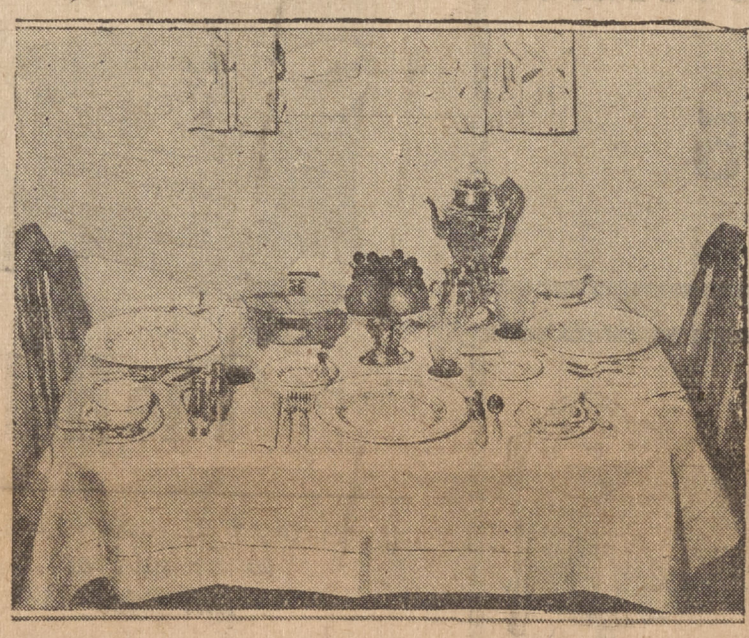

Ruffled Swiss tie-backs, exquisite old hooked rugs, a corner cabinet with quaint porcelain treasures; the easy-going chair in chintz . . . and wall paper . . . antique scenic paper shows a squire and his lady in soft old colors that are delightful. Not in the modern apartment could he or would we plan such a room. But out of the skyscraper section, in the suburban house up under the eaves or the country home in the hills, it wouldn't it beckon us in for rest and peace and comfort?

The picture is an excellent answer to this and similar questions regarding the use of furniture and objects that are dear through association but woefully out of date. Against a friendly background no article that has been "beautiful in its time" is out of keeping. One needs to exercise very good judgment, however, and be diplomatic enough not to force antediluvian relations into the racy company of today.

Tales That Tables Tell

By Alma Zaiss

WHO says that kitchenette tables cannot be lovely enough to rise above their close relationship to the pots and pans? Just one glance at the pretty colorful table illustrated would silence a negative answer—were we inclined to make one.

It doesn't matter at all to find that—by standing tiptoe—we can see both stove and sink just beyond the china closets that partition the kitchenette; or that the rack for fresh-scaled table towels looks down upon us from above. All the more reason for observing every nicety we can think of for the little breakfast table which each day must send its family off to work or to school in the best possible humor.

Being indoor-time now, thoughts turn to the liveliest possible colors for the background of the breakfast table. For we miss the gaiety of our summer gardens and shrubs. Tinted cloths in delicious shades of green, mauve and maize, perhaps with shaded borders, look everlastingly fresh and inviting and help to make us forget we have left green growing things behind.

Then there are clever little Scotch plaid cloths of cotton or linen. They are very smart when used as back-grounds for sturdy china in solid colors repeating one of the hues found in the cloth. And when organdie curtains are at the kitchenette window, nothing is more delightful than a breakfast cloth of tinted organdie with little napkins to match. Thin china and glassware are most appropriate with these sets.

Another interesting detail is the use of pewter knives and forks and spoons. There is quite a vogue for them just now . . . particularly for breakfast, when these quaint "ew-old" implements play a most gracious part in company with a pewter fruit bowl, salts and peppers and a pewter muffinier.

Little things—all of these points just mentioned; insignificant purchases that would hardly make a dent in the annual budget were we to indulge in them two or three times a year . . . yet the value of the good humor and the enjoyment they bring to the breakfast table could hardly be measured in dollars and cents.

Looking at the matter in this light, we see that woman's so-called weakness for pretty linen and silver and china may have its strong side as well. If in keeping these appointments ever varied and interesting to the family we are giving them not only beautiful tables, but good morning tempers too . . . isn't that justification enough for any reasonable bills we may present to the head of the household?

Hints to Indoor Gardeners

Before potting the house plants, enamel the pots and saucers in color to harmonize with the color scheme of the room. A stencil design in contrasting color or a cut-out pasted on the flower pot will add a pleasing decorative touch.

Mix a small quantity of finely pulverized tobacco with the earth when filling flower pots to destroy earthworms.

Why not bring one of the porch boxes into the kitchen instead of storing it. Place it on brackets in the sunny window. Fill it with plants that will blossom and lend an air of cheer to the kitchen, or make it your kitchen garden by planting parsley, chives, etc., in it.

You and Your Child

By Irma Morris

Count Ten!

BOBBY had often been told not to ride his velocipede in the house. But as he managed it very deftly, mother usually closed her eyes and allowed him to violate her orders. But one day when Bobby was riding he had an accident. He ran into a lamp, upsetting it and damaging the shade, which was valuable. Mother flew into a rage and spanked her young one "well." Had she stopped to count ten before punishing she would have realized that Bobby was no more culpable this time than when he rode the velocipede without doing any harm, and that the accident was entirely her own fault for allowing the child to disobey her wise commands.

Mrs. Blake had taken her little girl with her on a shopping tour. On the way home, in the train, Anne began to cry and scream. Mrs. Blake was very much embarrassed. She threatened the child if she didn't stop her racket immediately she would be put to bed without any supper, and that she would be deprived of candy for an entire week. Anne, nevertheless, continued to cry. Had Mrs. Blake counted ten, she would have realized that her little one was worn out by her fatiguing and exciting day, and she would have tried to divert her in

Ventilate All Work Rooms

WE ALL know that fresh air is necessary to sustain life, yet how many of us do not give a thought to the ventilation of the room in which we are working.

We are particular to sleep with open windows, but how about the kitchen and the living room, where the housewife spends her working hours. Fresh air is quite as essential during the day as at night.

Good ventilation will conserve your energy and you will not become so easily fatigued. Try it for a day and see how much more work you can accomplish and how much more cheerful you will be about it.

Nothing is more disastrous to the disposition than working in overheated rooms. When you get cross and feel cranky see whether you have been working under these depressing conditions. By all means, ventilate the rooms you are working in.

Did You Ever Think—

To fasten your door key to the lining of your handbag with a large safety pin? It cannot drop out and get lost and you will waste no time in fumbling for your key when you get home.

Treating the Adolescent Skin

HE was studying his face in a shop window mirror. Fingering his face, would he more accurately. He was young—about seventeen—and pimply. And his hands needed a good scrubbing.

He couldn't have known that this was the worst possible thing for his face. Picking at it with soiled, germ-ridden hands, out there in the middle of all the dust and dirt and microbes of a big city. Marvellous way to turn a pimple into a downright skin disease.

Concentrate on your general health instead. Play more outdoors. Eat less of the sweets you crave—also the rich desserts and the fried things. Drink more water—a whole lot more water. The more you drink, the cleaner your skin will become and the brighter your eyes. And be faithful to the daily tub. Better yet, tub twice a day—heart permitting—let there be a cool shower in the morning and a warm bath at night. Bathing clears the body of poisons, you know. And pimples, blackheads are poisons.

When a pustular pimple reaches the bursting point, lightly prick it with a sterilized needle, and immediately dab the opening with a half and half solution of witch hazel and water or some mild but efficient antiseptic solution. Unless you are scrupulously careful about opening a pimple, you are very like to scar your skin for years to come. Long after you have outgrown your facial blossoms.

Pinching blackheads is another way to cause scars and coarsen the skin texture. We should much prefer to see you employ some good blackhead solvent—of which the beauty market holds several excellent brands—or bathe and exercise the beauty little blackheads out of existence. Or do both, which is the quickest and best solution to the problem.

And don't be discouraged if your exercise and your abstinence from forbidden foods, your two-a-day bath and your copious water drinking do not result in a dazzling skin within a week. You probably do not know it, but it has taken several years of internal disturbances to put your skin in its present condition. And if it takes several months to bring it back to a state of baby freshness and beauty, we shouldn't call that at all bad.

Whatever else you do—don't do—please be careful about not fingering your face. Not a pretty habit under any conditions, and a downright dangerous one under pimply conditions.

Decorative Shades for Parties

For the yellow party, instead of making one large shade for the chandelier make one for each lamp. Over two wire hoops, at top and bottom, shir a strip of orange crepe paper. Puff it out in the middle. A cluster of long, green paper leaves may be attached at both sides of the upper hoop to droop over the pumpkin. Use cardboard for a nose, cut out eyes and back the openings with red cellophane, also the mouth, and paste on bits of white paper for a few teeth. Draw heavy black border around eyes and mouth. This will give you a pumpkin globe shade and, placed directly over the light bulb or globe, will make an effective decoration.

Washing Gloves

"THE skin wash gloves are not what they are cracked up to be!" exclaimed a young woman. "Mine always get streaked and lose all their softness when they are washed."

This is merely a case of wrong washing method. There are three important items to consider in washing skin gloves. Use a mild soap, do not use artificial heat in drying, and while drying rub the gloves gently between the hands several times to retain their softness. Gloves washed according to these directions will be like new.

"WAR"

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—UP—A war within the motion picture industry broke out unexpectedly today when eleven stars and producers of United Artists signed a statement denouncing the Fox Theaters as an arrogant monopoly seeking to stifle art.

The protesting group met in the office of Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, to hear read their declaration announcing that in the future their pictures would be withheld from the Fox chain.

The names affixed to the statement were among the great of the industry—Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Chaplin, Norma Talmadge, Eddie Cantor, Al Jolson, Ronald Colman, Gloria Swanson, D. W. Griffith, Samuel Goldwyn and Schenck.

Quarrel Told

In two paragraphs of the statement, the quarrel was explained: "The Fox organization is attempting to dictate to the makers of motion pictures just how much it will pay for pictures, regardless of who makes them or how much effort and love have gone into their creation or how much they are appreciated by the public. It is fixing a price for our pictures that is so low we cannot accept it and continue to make the kind of pictures we want to create."

"The monopoly intends to pay us less and charge the American public as much as ever. If we yield, we cheapen our pictures; if we do not yield we must show our pictures in halls and armories or deprive the people of the Pacific coast of productions that will be enjoyed by the rest of the world."

While the statement referred to the Fox West Coast Theaters, which is the Fox theater organization west of the Mississippi river, Schenck replied to a question by newspapermen as follows:

No Dictation

"At present the offending organization is Fox-West Coast. However, I will make the flat statement that we will not play Fox houses anywhere in the country."

The written statement said that United Artists will not be dictated to. "We have not made pictures as the slaves of a monopoly and we do not intend to do so. United Artists had its beginning ten years ago when four of us—Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith—rebelled against just such control as the Fox West Coast Theaters are attempting to achieve today."

The stars of United Artists know the road to success in the making of pictures through the reaction of the American people and hope to continue giving them the best," the statement added.

Slander Suit Is Filed In Court

MARTINEZ, Nov. 6.—Alleging slander, J. P. Owens of Richmond filed a suit for $10,000 damages against Peter Olsen also of Richmond in superior court here today.

In his suit Owens alleges that Olsen told persons "watch out for O. and A." and "what are you doing, protecting a dead beat and a crook." Owens declares that both of these alleged statements were made in reference to him.

DEATH CALLS
MRS. M. LOCATI

Rites for Mrs. Maria Locati, 46 year old native of Italy who passed away early yesterday, will be held from Ryan funeral home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Locati succumbed at the family home, 100 South Forty-second street, where her husband survives her. A daughter, Mrs. Dolina Pagliero of Albany, and a son, Joseph Locati also survive.

The deceased had lived in Richmond since her arrival in this country 17 years ago.

A rosary will be recited tonight at the Ryan funeral home at 8 o'clock.

Long Distance
Romance Busted

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—UP—Love had its inception over the sampling tables at Reno, and which culminated in a proposal over 4000 miles of telephone wires, went on the rocks here today, with the filing of a $12,000 breach of promise suit by Mrs. Lucia Smith, against Phillip J. Daube, Sacramento financier.

Love letters allegedly from "Phil to Phoebe," and a signed photograph, are Mrs. Smith's strongest evidence, she says.

She stated that she met Daube at the "Willows," Reno, roadhouse operated by the owners of "Cal-Neva," and that it was love at first sight. "Lady, I have a hunch you are going to bring me luck," he told her, she claimed.

Alpha Lodge To Have Entertainment

"National Sojourners" will entertain Alpha lodge of Masons when it meets Tuesday evening. Ladies will also be guests of the group that evening.

The entertainment that will be furnished Tuesday was to have been given some time ago, but was cancelled. It was said the offering Tuesday will make up for any loss that might have been suffered by the previous cancellation.

JUNIOR HIGH
PLAY HERE
TONIGHT

Everything was in readiness today for the presentation of "The Princely Pirate" by the Torchbearers in Roosevelt auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

The story deals with Albert Ljutice, the pirate who captures an English ship on which is a wealthy merchant, and his son Jack and daughter Alice.

Henry Croger is the merchant, while Allen Arno and Al Barrick take the parts of Jack and Alice. Billie Harrison is a fierce gunner, while Joseph Duesdieker is the blood-thirsty Brimstone. The Boys Glee Club is the pirate ship's crew and have several songs they will sing during the presentation.

Following the capture of the English vessel scenes that follow give the players an opportunity to reveal their true ability, and witnesses have said that they have carried out their parts to perfection. pected to be approved by the teachers group.

It is hoped to have the measure ready by the early part of next month that it may be given the California State Teachers' association council when it meets Dec. 12 and 13. Helms is also a member of the council from this district. The state is divided into six sections for representation on the council.

Another measure considered by the legislative committee which is expected to be ready for presentation in the form of a bill at the 1931 legislature is the teacher retirement fund measure. The present method for collecting money for the maintenance of the fund is not satisfactory and will soon go to pieces, experts report.

Each teacher pay $12 annually to the fund which is aided by inheritance tax, but the money collected by this means is not sufficient to meet the demands. Richmond teachers are expected to welcome the change that may be made in the fund collection plan, should it be made into law.

Teacher tenure was another measure considered by the committee. Los Angeles and San Francisco schools are reported favoring a ten year tenure. Richmond does not favor such a plan, Helms reported. The majority of the schools are believed to be of the same opinion as Richmond.

Many other measures are being considered for presentation at the best of teachers.
